ENTENTE IS MENACED BY FRANCE, SAYS GREAT BRITAIN

Because of Policy in Upper Silesia Relations Are Now Strained

(By International News Service)

LONDON, July 29.—Great Britain has formally warned France that unless she abandons her present policy there will be a general break-up of the European entente, it was learned this afternoon. This warning was contained in a note dispatched by Lord Curzon, foreign secretary, in reply to a previous communication from Premier Briand of France, dealing with Upper Silesia.

The French note, which was received here yesterday, was described as the sharpest of all the Franco-British exchanges. One British official, who was conversant with the contents, said that the tone resembled "an ultimatum," and that the language "was comparable with a threat to sever Anglo-French relations."

Great Britain, in her reply, declared that a continuance of the French policy of acting alone threatens to break down the entente cordiale.

Great Britain repeated that there was no necessity for sending allied reinforcements to Upper Silesia at this time.

The British communication concludes with the hope that the French note of Thursday is "not the considered decision of the French government."

"BLACK SOX" CASE NEARING ITS CLOSE

Indicted Baseball Players Not Placed on Witness Stand. Case With Jury Soon

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO, July 29.—The status of the "Black Sox" and the one gambler remaining a defendant in the 1919 world's series scandal trail, was uncertain today, as a result of the sudden action of the defense in resting its case. Attorneys for the state were undecided early today whether they would call rebuttal witnesses or proceed at once to argue before the jury.

In any event, it is probable that the case will be in the hands of the jury some time tomorrow or by Monday at the latest.

The defense rested its case at a night session of the court, after testimony of "Kid" Gleason, manager of the White Sox, Captain Eddie Collins, Ray Schalk, Dick Kerr and Roy Wilkinson had testified.

The only important point brought out in the testimony of these players was that the accused members of the club had been at morning practice in Cincinnati at a time when "Bill" Burns, chief witness for the state, had testified they were in conference with other conspirators in a Cincinnati hotel.

All testimony as to whether, in the opinion of the "clean" White Sox, the accused players had played honestly in the 1919 world's series, was ruled out of court.

The defense rested its case without putting any of the players under indictment on the witness stand.

IRISH PEACE PARLEY OUTLOOK IS BRIGHT

(By International News Service)

LONDON, July 29.—The outlook for a formal Irish peace parley in London was very bright today.

The Dublin correspondent of the Manchester Guardian reported that the Sinn Fein cabinet had reached a secret decision which is believed to open the way for a peace conference in this city, to settle for all time the troublesime Irish issue. It was believed, however, that Eamonn De Valera's reply to Premier Lloyd George's peace offer would not be sent to London for a day or two, possibly not until Monday. De Valera has been sitting with his cabinet in Dublin every day this week. For a time, British officials were perplexed by the unusual length of time taken by the Republicans to canvass the English offer, but the optimism prevalent in Dublin is now reflected here.

FORTNIGHTLY BRIDGE CLUB HAS OUTING

Members of the Fortnightly Bridge Club do not play during the summer, but occasionally they have an outing together. They had that pleasure Wednesday, when woman members of the club and their children were conveyed in automobiles to the Glendora Foothill school, conducted by Mrs. Leadora Whitcomb Dalvell.

Later in the day, the men of the club joined them and a delicious dinner was served by Mrs. Dalvell.

The party included Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ayars and three children, Carolyn, Bob and Alice; Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Puffer, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Howeth and son, Herbert; Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Wernette, Mr. and Mrs. William Sawyer, daughter, Barbara and son, Howard; Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Barton and son, Arthur.

GRAND VIEW NEEDS ARE PRESENTED TO CITY COUNCIL

Street Lights, Collection of Garbage, Street Repairs Included in Request

The first hearing granted by the City Council at its meeting last night, was accorded to Mr. Randall, representing the Grand View District and its improvement association.

After patting members on the back as very fine officials, he reminded them of promises made relative to street lights, collection of garbage, repair of streets and water service, and complained that none of these promises had been fulfilled.

The city manager replied that the city street light circuits are now overloaded and more cannot be placed until the proposed new circuit breaker has been ordered and installed and that, he said, could be done as soon as the city budget had been adopted. Relative to the collection of cans and garbage, he reported that men had been sent to Grand View for that purpose, and returned, reporting that the residents did not want the service. He would make further investigation, he said. The complaint of neglect in regard to water service he considered unfair, because that can only come with the sale of water bonds voted, and the institution of legal proceedings for the laying of a distributing service, which, he claimed, was being pushed with due diligence. The plans had been prepared, he said, and would be laid before the people of the Grand View district just as soon as the bonds had been sold.

Compromise Plan

Mr. Randall's criticisms, it appeared, were only preliminary to a compromise plan for furnishing the water main requested by Mr. Hamlin to serve the lots in his tract without the laying of a main on Vine street, for which Mr. Hamlin had agreed to pay half the cost, but which was objected to by property owners on the other side of Vine street, because they are already served by water pipes laid in the rear of their property. He suggested that in lieu of that, a line be laid at the rear of the lots, midway between Vine and Raymond, which would serve all the lots in the tract, and for which Mr. Hamlin was willing to pay the entire cost.

Mr. Watson objected, on the ground that the proper place for city water mains is in the city streets, and contended that such an arrangement would be inconvenient for the meter readers and, therefore, costly to the city.

Application Granted

Councilman Lapham said he considered it an advantage to have pipes laid in such an easement, as Mr. Hamlin proposed to give the city, because when laid in an improved street there was always a bump left that could never be eradicated. On motion of Councilman Stephenson, the application of Mr. Hamlin for the laying of a main to serve Tract No. 4198 was granted, with the understanding that he pay for the pipe and grant the city an easement for the pipe line.

As a final request, Mr. Randall asked for the appointment of a deputy police officer, to serve without pay in time of need, and it was referred to Chief Lampert, with the assurance that the request would be granted.

GLENDALE THEATRE VAUDEVILLE SHOW

The Glendale Theatre tomorrow night will present as a headline attraction on the Meiklejohn and Dunn show, Hans Hanke, international vaudeville star and celebrated piahist. Four selected highclass standard attractions are included on the superb vaudeville program and in addition the feature picture "The Three Sevens" starring Antonio Morino will be included on the program.

Despite rumors to the contrary the prices will not be raised for this special show, the usual Glendale theatre prices prevailing. The first show starts promptly at 7 o'clock and announcement has been made that absolutely no one will be seated during Mr. Hanke's occupation of the stage. Being an artist of high standing Mr. Hanke's contract with Meiklejohn and Dunn bears this provision therefore it behooves Glendale folk to attend the show early or else wait until the 9 o'clock show.

Swank Lacking

WASHINGTON, July 29.—It is almost pitiful—the rebirth of the Sam Brown belt.

General Pershing, as chief of staff, has attempted to put a little dash of swank into the army by ordering the Sam Brown belt as regulation uniform, but somehow or other the belt, than which none was "swanker" during the war, doesn't work the same as it did in the busy days when there were dashing young captains and majors and colonels and so forth.

The Sam Brown belt was reborn in the midst of a heat wave and it appeared on the streets of the National Capital during one of the most torrid spells of the Summer. Somehow or other it looked rather out of place and reminded one of pet dogs laden down with embellishing harnesses.

Fat majors puffed and swore. Lanky captains looked uncomfortable. Aged colonels damned the new-fangled contraptions. But the Army put on the Sam Brown belt.

Maybe it's because the Army isn't as dashing as it was. Maybe it's because the Sam Brown belts aren't accompanied by trench caps. But whatever it is, most certainly the belt has failed to produce the swank that the Army needs.

LORD NORTHCLIFFE, PEEVED, USES "UGLY WORD"

Denounces Denial in British Embassy Dinner Dispute as a Falsehood

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 29.—"It's a lie!"

That was the short and explosive comment of Lord Northcliffe today, when he read an International News Service dispatch from London, stating that the British foreign office had issued a statement denying that Lord Curzon had anything to do with the cancellation of the invitation to Lord Northcliffe to be the guest at the British embassy here.

Lord Northcliffe, fresh from his morning bath and with perspiration streaming down his face, strode across the room with his bathrobe flapping around his legs, as the reporter was admitted. The publisher beckoned him into an adjoining room, and remained standing.

"Be brief, young man," he snapped. "I want to get out of this heat. I can't stand it."

The London dispatch, containing the denial of the British foreign office of Lord Curzon's connection with the cancellation of the embassy dinner, was proffered to him.

"Read it," he said. "I can't see."

The dispatch was read.

"It's a lie," said Lord Northcliffe sharply, and turned to leave the room.

"Can't you say something further about it?" the publisher was asked.

"What more do you want?" Lord Northcliffe returned. "I said it was a lie, didn't I?"

The telephone rang and one of his secretaries called him. Just before he picked up the receiver, he turned and added:

"I happen to know he did it"—referring evidently to Lord Curzon.

Lord Northcliffe turned to the telephone and the interview was ended.

CITY COUNCILMEN FACE SEWER SYSTEM PROBLEM

Merits of Concrete and Vitrified Tile Subject of Discussion in Connection With Bids for Verdugo Canyon Project—Each Has Its Good Qualities

Quite an illuminating Exposition of the relative merits of concrete and vitrified clay sewer pipes took place at the meeting of the City Council last night, in connection with the consideration of bids for pipe to be installed in the Verdugo Canyon sewer system.

The first speaker, Mr. Boynton, who represented the Pacific Clay Products Company, explained that vitrified clay is more or less like glass, that it has a silicate base which is not acted upon by alkalies or acids and that is neutral by nature. Its concrete competitor, he declared, has a lime base, and for that reason is attacked by the acid gasses that develop in sewage and by alkalies. He admitted there would be no practical difference in the cost of laying the two sorts of pipe, but said the cost of the vitrified product would run from 2 to 5 cents a foot higher than the concrete. This would mean $5 a hundred feet, or $2.50 for fifty feet, which being divided between the two sides of the street would make the extra cost to the owner of a fifty-foot lot but $1.25, which he pronounced "cheap insurance against something that might give trouble. He declared there had been trouble in South Pasadena with the concrete line serving the septic tank and that there is trouble right now in Los Angeles with concrete pipe in the outfall sewer, saying that this could be observed by any one who cared to examine the opening. Acid gasses, he said, had caused the mischief, and those gasses cannot be avoided in sewers. Therefor a product that is not on a silicate base is wrong in principle.

Defends Concrete Pipe

Mr. Bent, representing the California Glazed Products Company, who, he said, had submitted the lowest bid, next addressed the council in defense of concrete sewer pipe. He insisted that wherever trouble had developed it had been because a cheap handmade pipe had been used and not a material up to standard specifications. The density of the concrete tells the story, he said, and then he dwelt upon the superior quality of the product put out by his company, exhibiting samples which had been excavated in San Diego, after being laid eight years without evidence of deterioration. He referred to the employment of concrete pipe for sewers in Long Beach, Chino, San Diego, Fresno, Los Angeles, Portland, Seattle, Spokane, etc., all of which had given a good account of itself, he insisted, but he said, where sewage is old, as in a septic tank, it develops acid gasses which are a terrific proposition against which no material can stand.

"The fresh flowing sewer, such as the Verdugo Canyon system, would be nothing more than a stream of water," Mr. Bent declared. He quoted the findings of the American Society for the Testing of Materials and the standard specifications adopted by that representative body last year by a roll call vote by letter, which he said were close to the specifications made by the Glendale engineers.

Represented Tropico Potteries

Mr. Murphy of the Tropico Potteries, was next heard concerning the vitrified clay product manufactured by that local factory. He sustained the points made by Mr. Boynton in favor of vitrified clay and said he was well acquainted with the sewer situation in Long Beach, because he had been superintendent of sewers there for seventeen years. To protect itself that city tested every sack of cement that went into its pipes. If that policy should be followed by Glendale he figured the added cost would bring the price of concrete pipe above that of the vitrified clay. Said he:

"The Tropico Potteries have been in business for twenty years. If you buy from us, a portion of your money comes back in the new pay roll. If you put it into concrete pipe every cent goes to Los Angeles. There is no wear out to clay pipe. I have a piece that was laid 125 years ago at the San Fernando Mission and taken up a year ago in as perfect condition as when it was put in and it didn't have any glaze on it." He quoted a letter written by Engineer Frank Olmstead, which was favorable to vitrified clay, and said, relative to the Pasadena sewer that the city under its own specifications had put in a disposal plant in 1910 which was almost completely destroyed by 1917, through the action of gasses. In closing, he said: "If you put in concrete you have no assurance that it will last until the bonds are paid. If you put in clay pipe it will last long after you and I are dead."

Rhoades Indorses Murphy

Mr. Rhoades, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, strongly indorsed the points made by Mr. Murphy, saying that when a resident of a Missouri city he had spent thirty days in company with members of a city council investigating the merits of concrete and vitrified clay pipe and finally selected the vitrified, which was laid in 1912, and is just as good today as when installed. "We are here," said he, "to build up Glendale and have adopted the slogan 'Buy in Glendale.' We have this Tropico Potteries Company, which is turning out a home product, employing a large force of men and building up the town, and I hope the council will see that the difference saved in the money that will be left here would make its bid the lower."

Mayor Robinson thanked the speakers for their illuminating talks and said the matter would be taken under advisement for one week.

MASONS' BANQUET PLEASING FUNCTION

Not less than one hundred and fifty enthusiastic and loyal Masons enjoyed the fine four-course banquet served last evening by Unity Chapter No. 116, in observance of High Priests' Night, and in honor of Mattison B. Jones, grand high priest of the Grand Chapter, Royal Arch Masons, State of California, who was paying his official visit to his home lodge. The dinner was served with a pretty floral setting of dark red dahlias and blue plumbago.

At 7:45 o'clock the grand high priest was officially received by High Priest Ernest Morgan, with all the honors the occasion demanded, and at 8 o'clock the Royal Arch degree was put on by visiting high priests of the district, all of whom are actual presiding officers of this year.

As announced yesterday in the Glendale Daily Press, several grand officers were guests of honor, and made brief speeches of greeting and congratulation, that of Grand High Priest Jones being the only one that could be termed an address.

American Legion Tonight

The American Legion will hold its regular weekly meeting tonight at the club rooms, 610 East Broadway. The boxing bouts which had been arranged as entertainment have been postponed, due to the inability of several of the battlers to appear.

PERMIT FOR GARAGE ON WEST BROADWAY

The City Council last night took action on the application of A. P. Pollock for a permit to establish a garage at West Broadway and Pacific avenue, which had been referred to Hartley Shaw, city attorney, for a ruling on the power of the council to grant or deny such application. On a decision made by Judge Charles Burnell, in a Long Beach case, it was held that a city council can deny such permits only if the public safety and sanitary welfare of a neighborhood is threatened. The city attorney stated that the Long Beach case was not based on the same premises as the Glendale application, and, in his opinion, the council had the right to grant or deny it. In response to inquiries, Mr. Pollock stated that the proposed building would be 50 by 80 feet, of concrete with stucco surfacing, of attractive design, and placed ten feet back from the lot line, with the intervening space in lawn. He exhibited an architect's "elevation." On motion of Councilman Davis, seconded by Councilman Kimlin, it was voted to grant the request on condition that the building conform to the picture shown, and be set ten feet back from the line. Councilman Lapham voted "no," not because, he said, he objected personally, but because of the objections of residents living near the site of the proposed garage.

JUDGE LOWE SENDS YOUNG SPEEDER TO JAIL CELL

Harold Gilson, Burbank "Cut-up" Is Now Guest of County Sheriff

Judge Lowe enacted the role of "the king in his counting room, counting out his money." There was so much coin that he had to count it several times to make sure of the amount. He explained that it was the returns from a grist of about forty cases against violators of the city's traffic laws, a few of them confirmed offenders, who had worn out the patience of the judge and gotten the surprise of their lives.

"I took away $25, from Harold Gilson, a young man of Burbank," said the judge, "and he is now in the county jail to get acquainted with the sheriff. This was not his first offense. I had tried to reform him, but he had ignored all my warnings and continued to jeopardize the lives of other people as well as his own. He had driven on San Fernando road at a speed of forty-five miles an hour and on Colorado boulevard at fifty miles. I don't think he is old enough to have cast his first vote, and if he keeps on in the mad career he has been following, he stands a chance of killing somebody, going to the penitentiary and losing his citizenship altogether.

"Francis Todd I fined $10 and deprived him of his operator's license for thirty days. He was another bad actor, a chronic violator.

"The boy who went to the county jail is heartbroken over the disgrace, but he has worn out his period of grace.

"One violator did a funny thing. He had been arrested and told to report here. Instead of doing so he wrote me a letter enclosing $2.50, assuming that if he did appear he would be tried and fined."

SENATE MAY PASS FARMERS' AID BILL

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Passage today of the amended administration bill to empower a reorganized war finance corporation to finance agricultural exports on an extensive scale, is planned by Republican leaders in the Senate.

A canvass of Republican and Democratic senators disclosed there are more than enough votes to jam the measure through as a substitute for the Norris bill, perhaps without even the formality of a roll call.

Members of the Senate agricultural committee, and the senatorial "agricultural bloc," Republican and Democratic, swung behind the administration plan for assisting the farmers, after it was changed materially to meet their views.

One of the principal provisions added to the re-written bill is that the secretary of agriculture shall become a member of the board of directors of the war finance corporation, which is now composed of the secretary of the treasury and four additional members appointed by the President.

GUARD OFFICERS IN LINE FOR PROMOTION

J. J. Borree, adjutant-general of the State, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday ostensibly for the purpose of appointing a colonel for the 160th Regiment of National Guard. It is rumored that Walter Story, who has been prominent in guard activities, is slated for the office.

The vacancy of commanding officer of the 160th Infantry occurred with the recent resignation of Lieutenant-Colonel James McKnight. In addition to appointing a colonel, General Borree will promote a number of officers to serve with the Los Angeles regiment with the rank of major.

A permit will be taken out tomorrow by the Citizens' Building Company for the erection of the new Chamber of Commerce building, at 142-144 South Brand. The contractors are H. W. and J. C. May, and W. H. Hillman. The contract price is $36,000. The building will be two stories in height, with concrete basement and brick exterior walls. The facing will be ruffled tan brick.

ROUTINE BUSINESS TRANSACTED BY CITY COUNCIL

New Officials Handle Matters With Vigor and Vim of Veteran Executives

The routine business transacted by the City Council at its meeting Thursday night, included miscellaneous matters, as follows:

Application of E. Long to establish a rest home at 605 West Broadway was referred to City Health Office for report.

Permits Granted

Resolutions were adopted granting permits as follows: To Jesse E. Smith for installation and maintenance of public garage on West Colorado boulevards; for installation of public garage at 120 South Maryland avenue; to Thielan & Yeager for a sheet metal shop at 1418 South San Fernando road; to Blossom Honey Bee Company, for honey bottling works at Eulalia street and Gardena avenue.

Budget Adopted

On motion of Councilman Stephenson council voted to adopt the budget of the public service department and the general budget of the City of Glendale, all voting aye, and the city manager was instructed to furnish each member with copies of the budgets.

The recommendation of the city manager that maps to be offered for approval be submitted for checking at least 24 hours before being presented to council was adopted.

Sierra Avenue Water

The city manager addressed a communication to the council relative to inquiries which had been made to him by P. S. McNutt of the Sierra district concerning the probable policy of the present council in giving water service to that district in the event of its annexation to Glendale. He stated that the understanding had been that water service by gravity flow from Verdugo Canyon would follow annexation. He called attention to the fact that such service could not now be given without the installation of a booster pump to lift the water to a point where it could be delivered by gravity. He suggested that the council advise the district, through Mr. McNutt, that it would secure service by voting to annex, then organizing an improvement district and voting bonds to cover cost of distributing system and booster pump. Mr. Watson was instructed to prepare such a letter and submit it to the council for approval at the next meeting, that it may reach Mr. McNutt before election day, August 11.

Improvement

City engineer was instructed to prepare plans and specifications for the improvement of Maple avenue, between Columbus and Central avenues.

Engineer Harry Lynch reported in connection with the city's water supply in Verdugo Canyon that he had made plans and specifications for a leaf screen and for making the upper intake into a division box to separate the city's share from that of Judge Ross, which plans had been approved by the Verdugo Canyon Water Company, and included the carrying of the water across Judge Ross's ranch to the Glendale avenue reservoir, the placing of a weir box and emptying of water into reservoir. The cost he estimated at $3,500. On motion of Councilman Stephenson the council approved plans and specifications and the city clerk was instructed to advertise for bids. Mr. Lynch recommended that the work be done by employes of the public service department.

Bus Ordinance

An ordinance relative to the issuing of licenses for the operation of auto busses and taxies, prepared by the city attorney, was offered by Councilman Stephenson and laid over for one week.

The change in city government having made necessary the re-writing of ordinances covering Municipal Improvement Districts No. 3 in Verdugo Canyon, and No. 4, in Grand View, calling for bond issues of $50,000 and $30,000 respectively, the ordinances were offered by Councilman Kimlin and Stephenson.

Ordinances previously introduced were adopted as follows: To provide for issuing of bonds to the sum of $22,000 for park purposes etc., to change the name of Walnut street to Orange street; to establish the grade of a portion of Orange street; ordering the opening of Garfield avenue; regulating automobile camp grounds; approving the annexation of the Viola street district. The salary ordinance was amended and adopted as amended, and the city manager was instructed to provide each member with a copy.

Lot Cleaning

Because of the difficulty experienced in collecting fees for lot cleaning, Councilman Davis moved the repeal of Ordinance 380 and the city attorney was instructed to draft an ordinancee making it a misdemeanor not to clean lots.

The report of the city manager relative to the business done by the public service department for the fiscal year and of the meeting of the hydro-electric committee of Pasadena at which he had represented the city, were ordered filed with instructions that copies be furnished members.

DELAYED MOULTING MEANS MORE MONEY

(Communicated)

A falling off in the number of eggs received is sometimes caused by improper care and feeding, and for the next three months the problem confronting poultrymen will be, first, how to secure a reasonable number of eggs; and second, how to shorten the moulting period as much as possible.

We will assume that the hens have been properly culled. Information on this subject is now widely diffused. It is safe to say that where hens have not been subjected to electric lights, that any Leghorn hen showing bright yellow shanks before June 15, ought to be sent to the market. After this date, approximately, the judgment of the owner will enter in. Mr. Hack, of Altadena, finds that the early moulters given electric lights during the fall and winter months, have shown splendid returns. Under ordinary circumstances, we find that any method that tends to delay the fall moult will increase profit.

The use of a limited amount of dampened mash has been found one of the best means of delaying the moult and at the same time, increasing egg production. As soon as the average of your flock has fallen to 40 per cent, we believe that it is time to start in with the dampened mash. Usually one quarter of an ounce a day per hen is enough to start with. This is weighed on a dry basis. Later on, increase to one-half ounce a day.

Dry mash should be kept before the hen all the time, and the one-half ounce of dampened mash fed in addition. We recommend that the dampened mash be fed in the afternoon, rather than in the forenoon, and at a set time every day, because the hens will be waiting for this feed.

In addition, we call attention to the great need of increased egg production to tide the poultrymen over, and we urge that a half ounce of dampened mash be fed to the hens, where market eggs are desired. This method usually adds 10 per cent to the egg production.

Lucky Eve!

ROME, July 29.—Eve was the luckiest woman of all time, in the opinion of the women readers of a Roman newspaper that recently held a vote to determine what woman of history their women subscribers would prefer to be, if they could have their choice.

Most of the women said they preferred the role of Eve. They reasoned that Eve, alone among the women of all time had no competition. Adam had to be true to her—for there were no others to vamp him. And if she did talk too much he couldn't run away; there was no place to go.

Second place in the balloting went to Mary Magdalene, on the ground that after enjoying all the sins of the world, she was forgiven, and then, being made a saint, experienced all the delights of Paradise. Mary's wide range of experience seemed to appeal to the fair voters.

COUNTY TAPELINE IN COURT TROUBLE

A very puzzling case has been bothering Judge Lowe for a few days past, and the end is not yet. L. Scott, of Los Angeles, was proceeding south on Verdugo road last Friday, with C. W. Chipman, of the same city, acting as chauffeur. Two surveyors in the employ of the city engineer's office had their steel tape-line stretched across the road for some needed measurements, and, according to their testimony, they signaled the oncoming car to stop, then hurried to their work so as not to block the highway any longer than was necessary. But the car did not stop and the surveyors had to jump for their lives. Their tape-line was run over and ruined, and, to add insult to injury, the chauffeur looked back at them and laughed, instead of stopping to see what damage had been done. The car was going from forty to fifty miles an hour, the surveyors thought, but they managed to get its number.

Scott and Chipman appeared to answer yesterday. They testified they were going twenty to twenty-five miles an hour, and saw no stop signal.

'udge Lowe reserved his decision until tomorrow. Meanwhile, Mr. Scott bought a fine tape-line, costing $10, to replace the one ruined.

So Would She

"My dear," impatiently asked the husband next morning, "where in the world is my hat? I can't keep a thing about this house. It's a shame the way things disappear without any apparent reason. I would like to know where that hat is."

"So would I," replied his wife sweetly. "You didn't have it on when you came home last night."

While officials talk much of a heavier tax, the voter is quietly grinding his ax.—Brooklyn Eagle.

GREAT MIGRATION TO FAR NORTHLAND

(By International News Service)

WINNIPEG, Man., July 29.—Twenty thousand Poles in the United States, according to an announcement here by Vincent A. Danielski, will soon take up farm lands in Manitoba.

Danielski, whose headquarters are in Chicago, represents the Union Liberty Association, which he says directs the affairs of Poles in the United States. He was commissioned to select an area of 30,000 acres in Manitoba for the Poles. He said it was the intention of the organization to extend its work into Ontario, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Polish settlers have proved to be serious, successful farmers and an asset to a young country. In Western Canada there are several settlements of Poles and other Slavic peoples. Records show that they are progressive, hard-working and quick to adapt themselves to the system of education and government.

Yes, Where?

Joseph and Isaac went to hear Billy Sunday preach, and after the service, as they were going home, Joseph said:

"Vell, Isaac, vat you t'ink of him?"

"I don't like him," said Isaac. "Too much hell. It was hell, hell, hell all the time. I don't believe there is any hell, Joseph."

"No hell?" asked Joseph in amazement.

"No," answered his friend.

"Vell, then, Isaac," said Joseph, "if there is no hell, where is bizness gone?"

No Controversy

"Did you overhear the controversy between these two gentlemen?" asked the magistrate.

"No, suh, judge," replied the colored witness. "Ah didn't heah nuthin' like dat. All Ah heard was some pow'ful loud cussin'."

All She Said

"So she refused you?"

"That's the impression I received."

"Didn't she actually say no?"

"No, she didn't. All she said was 'Ha-ha-ha!'"

PLAN TO INCREASE INHERITANCE TAXES

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Increased inheritance taxes are being considered seriously today as a new program on the tax program being drafted by the House ways and means committee.

This increase is being urged for the purpose of bringing in revenues to take the place of taxes which it is sought to have lifted from business, and with the object of "breaking up" the great fortunes that are being amassed in this country.

The farmer, laborer, single tax and other organizations which have appeared before the committee, have agreed in urging that the inheritance taxes be increased. It is the only recommendation on which they have agreed.

The army and navy bill for 1922 would build 150,000 homes, or keep 1,732 used cars in running order.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS HOLD INITIATION

The Soangetaha Camp Fire girls held their initiation last night, at the home of Miss Alice Farrow, 214 West Doran street.

The lawn was decorated with red lanterns, symbolic of the campfire, and the lights in the house were shaded to the same beautiful color. Masses of red roses and ferns were used in decorating the rooms and in carrying out the color scheme of red and green.

There were ten girls present beside the guardian, Mrs. Vila Andrews, including: Alice Farrow, Josephine Farnham, Margaret Wilson, Mildred Thompson, and Florence McGhee, who were already members of the organization, and the five girls who received their initiatory work that evening: Mary Cook, Regina Stroffer, Junita Mulligan, Eleanor Fawyer and Dorothy Watson.

The candidates were dressed as boys, some representing newsies, fisher lads, and one damsel in white flannels made a typical "young man about town."

After the ceremonial part of the initiation had been given, the candidates were taken, blindfolded, down and marched through the streets. Upon their return to the Farrow home, they were placed in a dark basement and then taken one at a time into another room for the last final rites. Several made their escape through an open and forgotten window, but were rounded up by their superiors and made to climb back into the darkened room, through the very window by which they had escaped.

At the close of a very delightful evening, dainty refreshments were served by the hostess.

VERDUGO RESERVOIR ABOUT COMPLETED

The new Verdugo reservoir is now practically completed. City Manager Watson, who made an inspection of the work this morning, announced upon his return that the work of roofing over the big pool will be finished within a week.

It is probable, however, that no use will be made of the reservoir this season inasmuch as pipe laying will require a considerable time to complete. No trouble is anticipated from the seepage which has been coming to the surface below the reservoir. A cement sluiceway has been layed to drain off the water and is satisfactorly.

Home with a great many people, is a place where they can laid aside their uncomfortable clothes and their good manners.

The Rift in the Fog

By DORA MOLLAN

(©, 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

In Fairhaven the season was drawing to a reluctant end. September had been a glorious month. Summer residents were lingering along, loth to leave. Huge woolsacks traveled majestically across the deep blue sky and were reflected in the waters beneath. Never were the sands of the beaches more dazzlingly white. From a mile out to seaward came the lazy ding-dong of a bell buoy. Orderly little waves lapped the shore as regularly as the ticking of a clock. It was the beauty of perfection that cannot last.

As the clerk in the office at the end of the long row of bathhouses looked up from his book long enough to hand Millicent Garrish a rubber band from which dangled a sizable key he remarked confidentially, "That's the only one out this afternoon and we close tonight for the season."

The sun was shining brightly when Millicent emerged from the bathhouse, but far out to sea a thick bank of mist was visible. The little stretch of public beach was deserted. There was no one to admire the slender, shapely figure revealed by the brown jersey bathing suit, as it ran down the sands and plunged into the water.

A hundred feet off shore floated a bathers' raft. With a long, easy overhand stroke Millicent made the distance in short order and, climbing the wooden ladder, seated herself on the canvas-covered floor, bare knees drawn up and hands clasped around them, looking straight out to sea. Now she could think.

There was not a boat in sight and the fog had already shut from view the outlying islands. With no details to distract one's thoughts the proposition should be an easy one, Millicent decided. She had only to imagine Gilbert Graham there beside her; and if the thought of his presence brought with it a thrill, if it made the water seem bluer and the clouds whiter, then the answer she had promised him that evening would be the one Gilbert had sought all summer.

Wisps of mist scudding on a light east wind, flew by. The parent bank of vapor drew closer to the shore. To the ceaseless song of the bell buoy was added the eerie bellow of a fog siren somewhere in the distance. And Millicent's imagination failed in materializing Gilbert Graham sitting there beside her on the raft. Of a sudden she realized why she was unable to conjure the picture. Gilbert disliked the sea. He did not even swim.

Then Millicent realized something else. The raft was hemmed in on all sides by the fog. The ding-dong of the bell buoy seemed to come from behind her now—and yet surely that was the shore side of the raft. Could she be confused in her sense of direction? Anyway, sounds were often deceptive in the fog; she knew that. It didn't matter anyway. What mattered was whether she really did love Gilbert Graham—or didn't.

But what was that new note, that steady undertone? Why, it couldn't be anything but the throb of powerful engines! That too seemed to come from the wrong direction, for there was not depth of water between the raft and the shore for any but a small boat. Whatever it might be was coming nearer. Perhaps the craft had lost its way and was in danger of going ashore!

Then abruptly the noise ceased—and of a sudden came a rift in the fog. Something huge and black loomed. A voice called, "We're right on it!" Then, close before Millicent's startled eyes, clearly outlined against the drop curtain of mist that obscured the rest of the craft as completely as though it did not exist, towered the prow of a big tug boat. And on it stood a man.

For the fraction of a minute these two, the man and the girl, stood alone in that rift in the fog before Millicent, abruptly turning, plunged into the water, just as the bow of the vessel touched the raft, and made straight for the shore. Yet they would have known each other in eternity.

Even as Millicent disappeared the man called to some one behind him, "There's a girl on her." As he spoke he jumped to the raft. But Millicent was already well on her way ashore.

The fog lifted as quickly as it had come and the man saw the slender figure emerge from the water and run up the beach. Millicent heard him call out, "She's all right."

As the girl gained the bathhouses the clerk called to her: "Came near to taking you along, didn't she? That's one of the Graham Wrecking company's tugs, come to take the raft away. Forgot to tell you."

Millicent dressed, drove her runabout home, dined and costumed herself for the last dance of the season at the clubhouse with a curious sense of elation. It was as though she saw everything about her through a mist and the only thing that stood out clearly was the figure of the man on the bow of the boat. Every detail of his appearance was stamped indelibly on her mind. He was an outdoor man—for the sun had tanned his skin and faded his khaki clothing to the same tan. It had even bleached his wavy hair in spots. His eyes were deep blue.

Afterward Millicent decided that she must have spent those hours in something resembling an hypnotic state—a walking dream. It lasted until Gilbert Graham led her determinedly out into the darkness of the club veranda after the first dance, and demanded his answer. Out at sea the fog was closing in and again the distant siren took up its muffled note of warning. Without realizing that she had never yet formulated a decision, Millicent's lips answered "No" to Gilbert's plea. The man she could love would love the sea; would sense the romance of work like that of the wrecking company Gilbert's father owned; would revel in the physical toil and risk of saving ships—human lives perhaps!"

"I see," interrupted Gilbert. "It's because I prefer to be treasurer of the concern rather than wear dirty khaki and do rough-neck work with the deckhands like—"

Millicent shivered. Her elation fell from her. It was that man on the prow of the tugboat—not as he probably was but as she had imagined him to be—whom she had been describing as the man she could love. Of course she would never see him again!

Gilbert observed the shiver and interrupted himself to say: "You're cold. Let us go in."

At the lighted doorway stood a man in white flannels, looking in. He was browned by the sun and his hair was burned lightish in spots.

"Hello, Paul! When did you show up?" Gilbert's tone was one of surprise, but it did not express much pleasure.

Not until Millicent, piloted by a strong brown hand on her arm, was half way down the walk that led from clubhouse to pier did she realize what the introduction had meant. Of course, this was that brother of Gilbert's who had charge of their New England branch. She hadn't dreamed—they didn't look in the least alike—

"Half brothers;" the man uncannily made answer to her unspoken thought. "You—you're the girl in the fog."

"Yes," answered Millicent. And that sense of elation came again, multiplied. For some note of finality in Paul Graham's voice assured her that they would always be together in a world of their own, as for that long moment they had been alone in the rift in the fog.

RARELY FALLS ON SUNDAY

Fourth of March Said to Have Been Selected for Presidential Inauguration for That Reason.

The presidential inaugural ceremonies are held quadrennially on March 4, because the first Wednesday of March, 1789, was fixed by the old Continental congress as the day for commencing proceedings under the Constitution of the United States; that being the fourth of the month. This Constitution was adopted by the convention over which George Washington presided on September 17, 1789, and was to become effective on the acquiescence of nine of the thirteen original states. By July, 1788, ten of the states had ratified the Constitution, and September 13, 1788, the congress of the federation selected the first Wednesday in January for appointing electors, the first Wednesday in February for casting their votes and the first Wednesday in March for commencing proceedings.

Only four times in the entire 145 years since the United States became a separate nation has March 4, as inauguration day, fallen upon a Sunday. There is a story to the effect that this date was originally chosen as the commencement of the President's term because congress figured it up and found that the 4th of March was the one day in the year which, quadrennially, would fall less frequently on Sunday.

Civilized

"Just to think," beamed the missionary. "Only twenty years ago I came here and brought enlightenment and civilization to your land. And now I return to find that you are entirely civilized."

"Civilized is right," replied the chief of Boogoobooland. "We are so civilized that we had to double the size of the police force and build a new jail. And some of our divorce cases are almost unfit to print."

When whipping cream add three or four, not more, drops of lemon juice and it will soon become thick.

BIRTHDAY DINNER FOR YOUNG MATRON

Mrs. George E. Tennant and daughter Miss Margaret Tennant of 317 East Elk avenue were hostesses at a pretty four-course dinner given in celebration of the birthday of Mrs. George Howard of 221 East Maple street. Red and pink gladioli and carnations were effectively used in decoration of the table which was centered with a miniature swimming pool. A handsome birthday cake bearing the proper number of candles, was a feature of the feast which was followed by an evening of cards. Mrs. Howard was the recipient of many pretty gifts, including several pieces of hand painted china, and a Japanese luncheon set. Guests who enjoyed the festivities were: Mr. and Mrs. George Howard, and little son, Mrs. Grace Ilfrey and baby of Houston, Tex., who are house guests of Mrs. Howard; Miss Louise Day of Akron, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. George Tennant, Quigg Tennant, John Rogers and Miss Margaret Tennant.

REPUBLICAN WHIP CRACKED IN HOUSE

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 29.—The Republican whip cracked in the House today as a drive was started to complete the legislative work of that body by August 25, in accordance with an agreement reached between President Harding and House leaders at a White House dinner last night.

The Republican leadership of the House today sent out telegrams to all absent members ordering their return to Washington in an effort to wipe the legislative clean.

The progress which was agreed upon by the president and the republican leaders is as follows:

Passage of the tax revision legislation as early as possible in August.

Passage of the Winslow bill authorizing the war finance corporation to extend credits to the railroads.

Passage of the administration measure authorizing the war finance corporation to grant relief to farmers.

Authorization of additional appropriations for the shipping board.

Agreement of conference report on Smoot-Sweet bill for reorganization of soldier relief agencies.

Agreement on conference report on anti-beer bill.

When this program is carried out there is some slight hope that the House may recess.

The July total is now $305,600, and that for the year this far, $2,251,999.

Culinary Temperament

"Charles, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, the new cook is going to leave unless you quit playing the phonograph."

"Doesn't she like music?"

"Yes. But she says those jazz records set so rapid a tempo she forgets herself and works three or four times as fast as her wages call for."

MRS. FLOYD BRADLEY IS HOSTESS AT TEA

Mrs. Floyd Bradley of West Broadway was hostess yesterday at a very pretty afternoon tea, given in honor of her former schoolmates and friends, Miss Marjorie Imler, of West Park avenue; Miss Juanita Emery, of North Kenwood street, and Mrs. Seymour Smith, of West Wilson avenue.

A color scheme of yellow and green was effectively carried out. The prettily appointed tea table, which was placed on the cool, airy veranda, was centered with a bowl of golden cosmos and ferns.

The afternoon was spent informally, recalling memories of their graduating year at Glendale high school.

GRANDMA SHROPSHIRE WRITES TO FRIENDS

Mrs. Mary E. Shropshire and daughter, Lillian, who are making an extended visit to eastern cities, has written to friends here from Cairo, Illinois, where her only son Charles, lives. He is the manager of one of a chain of grocery stores in the Mississippi valley. He and his wife, whom he won during the World War, have been in Cairo for several months and they have a very sweet baby, Grandmother Shropshire writes. It is her only grandchild and she is naturally quite proud of it. Charles is well-known in Glendale, having conducted an eating house, the Dew Drop Inn, after the expiration of his first enlistment in the navy, before the war began. Mrs. Shropshire and Miss Lillian visited in the old Missouri home city, Marshall, before going to Cairo. There next stopping place is Cincinnati, Ohio, where Miss Birdie is located.

SUNLAND TO OBSERVE PARK ANNIVERSARY

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the winning of Sunland's municipal park by the people of that community, will be celebrated with an all-day program, August 5.

Though the details of the celebration have not been completely arranged, it is reported that a group of prominent speakers will be present and a flag presentation ceremony will take place. The program will begin at 8 a. m. Citizens of Sunland won what is now their public park, after a detailed process of litigation in contest with one of the land companies who formerly possessed large holdings in the Monte Vista valley.

We Ask Help!

The circulation department of the Glendale Daily Press is anxious to bring its delivery service up to 100 per cent proficiency. The Press has a fine lot of carriers, but they are only boys and will sometimes get careless. We ask and earnestly urge patrons to promptly report, early, all failures to receive the paper before 6 o'clock p. m. and all wrong throwing of papers, causing them to land on adjoining lots, in weeds or flowers, on parkways or sidewalks. That is the only way in which such faults can be eliminated.

BLUE LAW LEADER GIVES RECIPE FOR BLISS

Dr. Wilbur F. Crafts' Views On Happiness Preservation of Married Folks

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 29.—One versatile gentleman is this Dr. Wilbur F. Crafts, Ph. D., reformer extraordinary.

Having old Beelzebub on the jump, and having raised something of a ruckus in New Jersey over the recent "battle of the century," the well-known and amiable doctor comes along with a dash of romance.

The doctor is giving a bit of advice on heart-tinkering today. "How to be happy though married" is a hackneed text, but the doctor has chosen it.

"Two of the most necessary articles to put in stock in a new home are a saving sense of humor and a habit of not taking oneself too seriously," advises the reform leader.

"One of the most essential things to home happiness is that the wife shall not have to come daily as a beggar to her husband for money, but shall have in life the control of at least the 'third' she is entitled to by law if her husband dies," the doctor prescribes.

"Usually the wife can spend most wisely at least that much of the joint product of their wisdom and work. But in any case she should have her fixed share of income and study how to use it wisely.

"Most of all in the parental relaiton the partnership with God in the highest work of creation, the sacredness and chivalry of sex should never be degraded by coarseness of word or deed."

And there you have the doctor's prescription for complete domestic felicity.

Of course, the doctor's sally into the field of domestic relations is but by way of diversion, and he wants it distinctly understood that his chief business line is that of the "cheerful reformer."

Dr. Crafts uses the sobriquet of "cheerful reformer" advisedly, too, for he has come up smiling after every battle, whether he won or lost.

Was Man of Few Words

When J. K. Paulding was Secretary of the Navy he wrote to the postmaster of a small village in the South as follows: Sir: This department wishes to know how far the Tombigbee river runs up." The answer came back: "It runs down." The Postmaster General was informed of the affair, and failed to see the humor of it. He wrote a letter to the Postmaster that said: "Sir: your appointment as postmaster is hereby revoked. You will turn over funds et cetera pertaining to your office to your successor."

In no wise put out the postmaster once more took up his pen, and the Postmaster General received this: "The revenue for this office for the quarter ending September 30, has been 65 cents; its expenditures, same period, for candles and twine, 85 cents. Please instruct my successor to adjust balance."

GRAVESTONE QUIZ BY COUNTY GRAND JURY

As a result of reports filed by small dealers in stones, that a "combination" is attempting to force them to fix the price of grave markers at $75 in place of $35, the county grand jury announced, will institute a gravestone probe to get at the facts of the alleged conspiracy.

Small dealers, because of their refusal to boost the price of markers are being refused supplies from the quarries, it is said. This procedure is in violation of the Cartwright anti-trust law.

An ad in our Classified columns today will bring business tomorrow.

BIG ATTRACTION AT PALACE GRAND

"Bob Hampton of Placer," Stirring Indian Drama, Today's Offering

With General Custer's famous last stand against the Sioux in the Battle of the Little Big Horn as the dramatic and spectacular climax, "Bob Hampton of Placer," said to be the greatest production yet made by Marshall Neilan, will be the piece de resistance on the screen at the Palace Grand Theatre today and tomorrow.

James Kirkwood has the title role. Featured players are Wesley Barry, Marjorie Daw and Pat O'Mailey. Others prominent in the cast are Noah Beery, Frank Leigh, Dwight Crittenden, Tom Gallery, Priscilla Bonner, Charles West, Bert Sprotte, Carrie Clark Ward, Vic Potel and Bud Post.

Marion Fairfax wrote the scenario for "Bob Hampton of Placer," which is taken from the Randall Parrish story of the same name.

It is a story of love, intrigue and adventure, with one of the most thrilling and picturesque pages of American frontier history as a background.

Marshall Neilan took his entire company to Montana and to Arizona for the exteriors, and rare photography is said to have resulted. More than 2000 Indians and soldiers are used in this spectacular production, which is released by Associated First National Pictures, Inc.

Ben Turpin has become a star. Heretofore he has merely played a part in Mack Sennett's comedies. Now he is the feature. With his eyes crossed in the familiar manner, and his brow knit he appears today at the Palace Grand in "Love's Out cast."

SAN FERNANDO FAIR OFFICIAL FOR VALLEY

Recent endorsement of the San Fernando Fair and Market by the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors, has made it the official fair of the valley, according to a report received today from William M. Geddes, publicity manager of the fair.

A committee from the valley which interviewed the county board early in the week asked for an appropriation of $15,000 for the support of the fair. No action was taken on the matter but the committee is optimistic in regard to the county's financial aid.

Under the direction of H. L. Graham and with the assistance of H. F. Holloman, the swine breeders committee is pushing to the fore their section of the live stock exhibits. Sad Case in Court

A sad sight was witnessed in Judge Lowe's court room this morning, two mothers, one with a babe in arms, making payments on a claim for damages done to public property by their sons, aged about 12 years. The judge was kindly spoken toward them and gave them time to finish the payments.

BAD HABITS

"You would be a much more agreeable man," observed the professor, "if you would abandon the disgusting tobacco habit. Your aroma taints the breeze to such an extent that I know you are coming before I can see you."

"I'm glad to hear that," said the low-browed man. "Some people go to great expense engaging advance agents, but I never believed in useless extravagence. If a 10-cent package of tobacco will do as good service as a high salaried advance agent, I'd be foolish to keep the ten cents."

"People are always asking me why I don't quit tobacco, and I've always noticed that the people who regard my little innocent habit with disgust, have worse ones of theier own. Why don't you quit wearing sidewhiskers, when you must know that they jar the nerves of the fastidious, and make you look like something that should be in a museum? What sense is there in wearing sideboards? I'd be the last to speak slightingly of an infirmity or deformity. If you had a game leg or wry neck, my heart would be full of sympathy for you. Such afflictions should not be mocked or held up to scorn by any man; but nobody needs to wear sidewhiskers. It's something that can easily be helped. You shouldn't make caustic remarks about the tobacco habit until you have had those fire escapes removed.

"Old Doolittle asks me about three times a week what pleasure I find in using tobacco. I have explained the matter to him repeatedly, but nothing I say seems to make any impression on him. He clings to the belief that smoking is on a level with robbing a church or defrauding a widow.

"He doesn't use tobacco, but he has about every other bad habit you can thing of. When it comes to spoiling the truth he could give cards and spades to the whole Ananias family. I try to be reasonably truthful. I never spring a fish story unless it will serve a good purpose. But Doolittle will go to all sorts of trouble to hand you a falsehood. If he says he has the toothache, you may rest assured it's a sprained ankle that's bothering him. I contend that it's worse to sit on the truth and hold it down than it is to load a good old briar and blow out a few reams of smoke.

"Aunt Julia is always lecturing me about the tobacco habit. I have said it a hundred times, and I say it again, that my aunt is all wool and a yard wide, and you would travel far before finding a better female, but if you think she has no bad habits you have another guess coming. Two or three years ago she read some English society novels. Those stories are full of tea parties. A man reading them would think the Britishers spent all their time at tea fights.

"Aunt Julia thinks that anything British is entirely proper, and she got the idea that you can't be fashionable unless you consume a certain amount of tea. So she blew herself for the herb, and began drinking it. At first she said it tasted like colic medicine, but she persevered, and now she's the champion middle weight tea drinker of this burg. I won't say anything about the money it costs. She insists upon having imported tea, and won't be satisfied with any home grown substitutes, although sage tea is far better and costs next to nothing.

"She gets on a tea jag every time she has company, and then for two or three days she has a hangover, and her nerves are a sight to be seen, and I just wish you had to live in the same house with her at such times. Then you would be willing to admit that there are worse things than smoking."

"Talking, for instance," sighed the professor.

Mrs. N. W. McBryde of 126 North Louise had the pleasure of entertaining for the first time in ten years, Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Landreth, cousins, who came to Glendale about a year ago from Evansville, Indiana, not knowing Mrs. McBryde was living here. Recently they discovered her and the meeting last night was a review of old times and pleasures. Mrs. Landreth is a niece of Mrs. S. J. Fambrough, mother of Mrs. McBryde. She and her husband are very much delighted with Southern California.

"CHEATED LOVE" AT GLENDALE THEATRE

Carmel Myers Universal Star, Film Feature for Today and Tonight

Carmel Myers has a role to which she is admirably suited in "Cheated Love," the Universal photodrama, which comes to the Glendale Theatre today.

The star appears as a little immigrant from Russia. She arrives at Ellis Island, the human clearing house in New York harbor, and joins her father in the ghetto, where she works, lives, and loves.

In no other one of her many successful screen plays has Miss Myers had such a congenial role. The star is of Jewish birth and has a deep understanding of the self-sacrificing qualities which animate those of her race through life.

King Baggot, star, director and writer, directed "Cheated Love" at Universal City from the original story and scenario by Lucien Hubbard and Doris Schroeder.

The wrecking of an east side theatre by a terrific explosion, a tangled love-interest, an interesting analysis of human character, humorous touches in unexpected places and tense, powerful situations make "Cheated Love" one of the big screen dramas of the year.

Aesop's Fables in a modernized version will be shown again today at the Glendale Theatre. The reel shown last week proved particularly pleasing to the audience and it is said that today's film is equally good. Aesop's Fables have been advertised 2500 years.

We have a suspicion that inmates of the penitentiary would declare unanimously for the open shop.—Portland Oregonian.

It is noted that many who speak most and loudest about constitutional rights know next to nothing about the constitution.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

INTEREST IN EXPO BY BUSINESS MEN VERY KEEN

Fifty Per Cent of Exhibition Space Already Sold—"Buy in Glendale" Slogan

Interest has grown so keen in the Merchants' Exposition, to be held in Glendale, August 27 to September 3, that more than 50 per cent of available exhibition space in the big tent has already been sold out to representative merchants of the city.

Enthusiasm is evident on every hand, according to H. Elmo La Breque, managing director, who predicts that the Glendale Exposition will outdo similar expositions held in other cities in Southern California, He points out that business houses are cooperating to an unexpected extent.

The idea behind the slogan: "Buy it in Glendale, if it is just as good or better and costs no more," seems to "strike" Glendale merchants about right, according to Mr. La Breque. Seemingly the Exposition has reselved into a united effort on the part of local business men to demonstrate to the Glendale public that it is just as economical to purchase goods here as in Los Angeles.

The entertainment to be furnished at the Exposition is still largely a secret. Mr. La Breque has only gone so far as to admit that the vaudeville skits would prove a big advertising boost to merchants who are renting booths for display purposes, as well as providing a source of entertainment to visitors to the exposition. It was learned this morning, however, that "Classy" Marlowe will direct the fashion revue, and will lead a bevy of pretty girls in the work they are to do. Miss Marlowe, it is said, broke into fame at the Hotel Astor in New York, where she directed seasonal fashion shows.

Merchants who have engaged exhibition space up to this time are: Glendale Creamery, Carlsonia Facial Massage, Harry C. Smith, Sierra Club Beverages, Gordon's Ladies' Wearing Apparel, Gilbert Brooks' Millinery, Packer Studebaker Agency, Newton Electric Company, Coker & Taylor, Glendale Music Company, Russell Furniture Company, C. E. McPeek, the plumber; Buick Automobile Agency, Bentley-Schoeneman Company, Nash Motor Agency, Philadelphia Batteries, Barnes-Shuck Music Company, Glendale Electric Company, Jesse E. Smith, Fords; Neale & Gregg Hardware Company; H. S. Webb, Dry Goods and Men's Furnishings; Harry Moore, paints and signs; Monarch Auto Supply Company, Oakland Automobile Agency, Spohr's drug store, Jewel Electric Company, Glendale Hardware Company, Robinson's Men's Shop.

FRIDAY, JULY 29, 1921

THOUGHT FOR TODAY—The louder some men talk the less they have to say. The bass drum makes a mighty noise. But it's as empty as a hollow log.

GETTING OVER THE HILL

Business, with its almost uncanny ability to sense economic conditions and the degree of prosperity in society, is recording greater firmness in the industrial world. Business has not shifted gears into high speed, but this war-weary country is nearing the top of the hill. We are about to go over, to strike a peace time, stable, prosperous gait.

A few months ago the task of pulling through was based on the fervent hope that if we all wished hard enough, we could make good somehow. It was psychological. But now there are bold, outstanding facts which assure us that economic recovery is actually on the way.

A few months ago the high cost of living reached from producer to manufacturer, from wholesaler to retailer. But since then there has been a general and gradual decline. Even the zig-zagged course which falling prices took a short time ago is straightening and commodities are reaching a more sound price relation to each other. The deflation has been without serious upheaval.

Employers, under the stern necessity of reducing expenses, have actually performed a service to society and have helped their own business. They have weeded out the unnecessary, costly elements in their business. They are running on a more economical basis. And labor, for the most part, has displayed a degree of co-operation that has been beneficial. There have been fewer labor difficulties in America than in any of the other belligerent countries.

In some of the departments at Washington there has been an honest effort to inject business methods. This all means less overhead expense for the government and, in time, less taxes. The railroads have been granted permission to lower wages and this should mean sounder business if not lower freight rates The railroads are not only the largest single employers of labor in the country, but they are the largest buyers of materials. A return to stability for the railroads will have its effect in many channels.

The 1921 crops in the United States are going to exceed earlier predictions, assuring the country plenty of food as well as aiding the farmer to overcome his deflation losses.

But not only in the United States but in the world at large are there distinct signs of improvement, assurances that the whole world is nearing the top of the long upgrade. Except for the Turkish-Graeco war, the world is at peace for the first time in seven years. The troublesome bonfires in Eastern Europe, while perhaps not entirely extinguished, are under control and for the present have died down. Germany has finally agreed to the Allied reparations, and the only question remaining is on the time of payments. The Irish situation looks more hopeful than at any time since the war.

Finally comes the spontaneous enthusiasm with which the Allied powers accepted Mr. Harding's call for a disarmament conference. This signifies an earnest desire to establish permanent peace and means that the nations which are now spending billions for armaments may direct that money into peace-producing channels.

It is because of these facts that there is a new hope in the hearts of business men, a hope based upon actual conditions and not mere psychology. The wheels of business are beginning to run more briskly, more smoothly, more prosperously.

As a rule, the men who get turned down by life insurance companies come in handy as pallbearers for the men who don't get turned down.

One reason why men wear coats in summer is because fifteen minutes after they put on a clean shirt it looks like the fag end of distress.

It appears that nations are not so much interested in beating swords into plowshares as they are in beating competitors into oil fields.

GRAVE AND GAY

Look What He Got

A miser was scoring a hired man for his extravagance in wanting to carry a lantern when calling on his girl.

"The idea," he scoffed. "When I was courtin' I never carried no lantern. I went in the dark."

The hired man proceeded to fill the lantern. "Yes," he said sadly, "and look what you got."

Ready to Help

"Oh, doctor, I am suffering so much I want to die!"

"You did perfectly right to call me."

Why He Came

Joan—Mummy, was baby sent down from heaven?

Mother—Yes, dear.

Joan—They do like to have it quiet up there, don't they?

His Part

"Now, you say, sir," said the lawyer to the witness, "that you personally heard the quarrel between the defendant and his wife?"

"I did."

"Well, now," said the lawyer, "suppose you tell us exactly what the defendant seemed to be doing."

"He was doing the listening."

Just The Car

"I see Black has got a four-thousand-dollar car."

"How did he get the four thousand?"

"Oh, he hasn't got that yet."

Going Down!

A Scotchman who was notorious as a skeptic had erected a massive mausoleum for his final rest and one day he observed an elder of the kirk gazing at it. "Strong place that, hey David?" he said. "It'll tak a mon some time tae raise up oot o' that at the Day of Judgment." "Hoot mon," said David, "ye can gie yersel little fash aboot raisin' when that day comes. They'll tak the bottom oot o' it and let you fa' doon."

Bootlegging!

An Indianapolis resident went up to the sidewalk newsstand to buy his regular weekly magazine, "Police stopped us sellin' anything but newspapers. Drug stores and hotel newsstands made a kick against us," the attendant told him. "You mean no one is selling magazines from the street newsstands?" asked the would-be purchaser. "Nobody except the stand on the next corner. He's bootleggin' 'em."

WOMAN'S COZY CORNER

By JOSEPHINE FRANCE

Some Good Cakes

White Cakes with Fruit Icing

½ cup shortening
½ cup water
3 teaspoons baking powder
Whites of 2 eggs
1 teaspoon flavoring
1 cup granulated sugar
2 cup flour
½ teaspoon salt

Cream shortening and sugar together until very light; add water very slowly and beat constantly; add flavoring; stir in the flour, salt and baking powder which have been sifted together twice; fold in the beaten whites of eggs; put a spoonful of batter into individual cake tins and bake in moderate oven 20 to 25 minutes, or bake in shallow pan.

Fruit Icing

1 egg white
1½ tablespoons strawberry, raspor other fruit juice.
1½ cups confectioners' sugar

Put unbeaten egg white in shallow dish; with wire whip, beat in the sugar a little at a time; add the fruit juice and spread on top of cakes.

Peach Cobbler

Three cups dried peaches (softened overnight and stewed slowly); 2 cups sugar; flavoring; butter flaky pie crust. Boil the sugar in which the peaches were softened, for ten minutes and pour over the softened peaches and allow to cool. Flavor to taste. Line the sides of a large, deep pudding dish with pastry. Put in the peaches, dot the top with tiny pieces of butter. Cover with pastry, brush over with beaten egg and slash the center crosswise. Bake until the paste is nicely browned. Serve hot or cold with sugar and cream. A very palatable dessert.

Devil's Food Cake

Gradually beat 1 cupful sugar into 2 well beaten eggs. Add 3 tablespoonfuls melted butter or substitute. Add alternately ½ cupful milk and 1½ cupfuls sifted cake flour to which has been added 4 tablespoonfuls cocoa, 2½ teaspoonfuls baking powder and ¼ teaspoonful salt. Bake in two small layers about 25 minutes. Cover with a white icing and decorate with halves of English walnuts. Double recipe for three or four layers.

Raisin Biscuits

1 cup chopped raisins
2 cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
1-3 cup milk
2 teaspoon baking powder
2 tablespoons shortening

Sift flour, salt and baking powder into bowl, add the shortening and rub in very lightly, add enough cold milk to hold together, add the raisins and mix. Place dough on floured board, roll or pat with hands until 1 inch thick, then cut with biscuit cutter and brush tops with cold milk. Bake in hot oven 20 to 25 minutes.

Stopped Here

"In the first act of my play," explained the young dramatist, "the scene is laid in a cemetery."

"So I see," said the manager brutally as he skimmed through the pages of a manuscript. "And you might as well lay the whole thing there."

Cocoa Cakes

4 tablespoons shortening
½ cup milk
1¾ cups flour
3 teaspoons Baking Powder
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 cup sugar
1 egg
½ cup cocoa
¼ teaspoon salt

Cream shortening; add sugar and well-beaten eggs; beat well and add milk slowly; sift flour, baking powder, salt and cocoa into mixture and stir until smooth; add vanilla; pour batter into well-greased shallow pan; the batter should be about ½ inch thick. Bake in moderate oven about 20 minutes; when cool, and before removing from pan, cut diagonally across from opposite corners to make diamond shaped pieces; cover with boiled icing. These make very attractive cakes to serve at afternoon tea or uncheon.

Cream Puffs

½ cup shortening
1 cup boiling water
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup flour
1 cup flour
⅛ teaspoon salt
3 eggs

Heat water and shortening in saucepan until it boils up well; add flour, sifted with salt, all at once and stir vigorously. Remove from fire as soon as mixed; cool and mix in unbeaten eggs, one at a time. Add baking powder, mix well, and drop by spoonfuls 1½ inches apart on greased tin. Shape into circular form with wet spoon. Bake 25 minutes in hot oven. With sharp knife, cut slit near bottom of puff to admit filling. Fill with sweetened whipped cream.

Tea Biscuits

2 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
2 tablespoons shortening
1-3 cup water
¾ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
1 egg

Sift flour, baking powder, salt and sugar together into a bowl; add well-beaten egg and melt shortening to water; add to dry ingredients to make soft dough; roll out on floured board to about ½ inch thick; cut with biscuit cutter and bake in moderate oven about 25 minutes.

Pearl Roll

Four eggs; 6 tablespoons sugar; ¼ cup flour; 1 teaspoon baking powder; ½ teaspoon lemon extract; 6 tablespoons butter, melted; 2 cups dried peaches, sieved; chopped nut meats or cocoanut. Soften and slightly sweeten peaches; rub them through a sieve and keep them warm. Beat up eggs and sugar five minutes, then beat over boiling water ten minutes, take from water and beat until cold. Remove beater, sift in flour mixed with baking powder, add lemon and butter. Mix carefully, turn into a greased and floured jelly roll tin and bake in quick oven twelve minutes. Turn out on a paper sprinkled with sugar, spread quickly with peach sauce, roll up at once and sprinkle over with chopped cocoanut or nut meats.

"FRESH" VICTUALS WILL AID THESE EXPLORERS

Dehydrated Process Insures Menu Never Before Known in Arctic

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 29.—When Captain Donald E. MacMillan and his six adventurous companions sailed down the Sheepscot River, Maine, a few days ago headed for Baffin Land and the uncharted regions of the frozen North they carried with them what will be the first fresh fruits and vegetables ever to penetrate to that barren land. The foodstuffs which included raspberries and cabbages, both to be eaten raw; fresh spinach, green corn and new rhubarb, in the stalk, for rhubarb pies, were packed simply in paper bags and cardboard boxes and were so compact that they will be sufficient to last six months.

The food was in dehydrated form, by which chemical process of removing the water without destroying the cell walls a bushel reduces to a pound or two, will keep indefnitely in that form and yet may be restored to its original bulk, color and taste by a few hours soaking in water. Not the least interesting items on the list of dehydrated foods carried on the Arctic expedition was a quantity of roast beef hash, complete, which in its dehydrated form is a mass of dry, withered kernels. A little water will so restore it that it can be cooked just as if entirely new. Enough dehydrated grass to last the dogs of the expedition for six months at the rate of two portions a week was included, and a bunch of catnip for the ship's cat. A small quantity of eggs and fish was also furnished.

Superior to Canning

The foods were prepared at twenty-four hours' notice by scientists and food experts who have been experimenting with the dehydration process as affecting every fruit and vegetable grown on the North American Continent, and with meats, fish and eggs. The process, which takes from half an hour to four or five hours, according to the water content of the article, is claimed by scientists to be far superior to drying or canning, since the volatiles, flavoring essences, colorings and nutritive properties are preserved intact. The great decrease in bulk under dehydration is due to the fact, little appreciated, that fresh foods average 90 per cent water and that in paying for such the consumer is actually paying for water he does not want or need.

Will Consider Inventions

The dehydration process is one of the inventions sponsored by the Association of Scientists, Engineers, Inventors and Financiers, headed by Dr. Miller Reese Hutchison, former chief engineer to Thomas A. Edison.

Dr. Hutchison is the inventor of the acousticon for the deaf, the Klaxon horn and several hundred other devices. Associated with him in his new enterprise are Hudson Maxim, Rear Admiral Samuel McGowan, Paymaster General U. S. Navy, retired; William M. Williams, former Commissioner of Internal Revenue, and Sir Edgar Rees Jones, M. P., head of the Priorities Division of the British Ministry of Munitions during the war and European director of the association. EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You Can Bring Back Color and Luster With Sage Tea and Sulphur

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is mussy and troublesome. At little cost you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger.

Garden Hints

Holly ferns make very acceptable house ferns, and if anything, are more hardy than the popular Boston.

The old-fashioned Poeticus often fails to bloom the first year. Those who do not care to wait should choose instead the improved type known as Poeticus ornatus.

Scarlet flax is one of the finest annuals for planting on heavy soils. It is an excellent mid-winter bloomer, and requires no special care. It does best if given an open sunny location.

When you do not have the time to spray, try hosing off your plants. This treatment will often eradicate plant pests, provided they have not become too firmly established.

Commercial fertilizer is recommended where one wants quick results with leaf vegetables. The most tender and succulent lettuce may be raised by making small applications every two or three weeks. Commercial fertilizers are very concentrated and should not be used carelessly. It is an easy matter to burn up your plants. Be sure to water both before and after applying the fertilizer.

Hardy perennials should have a place in every garden. If your soil conditions are trying make your selections carefully. The following are a few which can endure hardships: Centranthes, Coryopsis, Hardy Chrysanthemums, Scotch Pinks, Gillardias, Golden Rods, Hardy Sunflowers, Penstemons, and Shasta Daisies.

GLENDALE THEATRE COOLING SYSTEM

Not a set of lumbering creaking fans, but a steady current of cool air diffusing itself all over the auditorium in less than four minutes. This is a concize description of the cooling system used in the Glendale Theatre, the first of its kind in Glendale. This cooling current of air is generated by two giant turbine fans each 8 feet in diameter, located on the roof of the building and run by electric motors. The theatre is to be congratulated.

FOUR FRIENDS

For greater gifts I would not pray
Nor ask the gods to send my way
If I could have four friends a day.

A friend of better days than this.
Of brighter sun and golden bliss
Before the times had gone amiss.

A friend of worse days, dark and dreary,
Who shared the hours of storm and fear,
Before the skies began to clear.

A friend new made who shall afford
Adventures of the unexplored.
A friend with happy future stored.

An old friend who has stood the test,
Has known the worst and known the best,
Alike in both forever blessed.

WOMAN TENNIS STAR EXPLAINS HOW TO SUCCEED

Singles Champion of France Advises American Girls To Retain Poise

(By International News Service)

PARIS, July 29.—Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, world's champion women's singles tennis player, speaks English almost as well as she plays tennis.

She is a typical Frenchwoman, tall, graceful, with a wonderful carrriage and a pleasant personality. She radiates vitality. When asked to tell the women tennis players of America how she manages to keep so wonderfully fit, she volunteered readily.

"To play tennis well," said Mlle. Lenglen, "one must be in perfect physical condition. It also follows that if you are not in perfect condition you cannot play.

"Skipping and running are good exercises, but they should not be kept on for too long a period. Leave off just before you are getting short of breath.

"But above all things one must become supple. I attribute what agility I possess to doing Lieutenant Muller's exercises. Never a day passes but what I take those exercises—sometimes in the morning, sometimes in the evening, and sometimes both.

"There is no necessity to strain oneself; five to ten minutes will suffice to keep anyone supple and in good condition.

"If a girl came to me and asked me how to start tennis I should tell her to take Muller's exercises every day and never forget them. Then do some skipping and high kicking.

Value of the Toes

"When on the courts keep on the toes all the time. It is surprising how many people keep on the flat of their feet or on their heels when playing tennis.

"It is a fatal mistake, for one can never start quickly other than from the toes. Those people who will not heed this advice will discover that they are always just too late for the ball.

"After the pupil has mastered these highly important matters and has become much more supple than she was before she started she should learn to hold her racquet properly.

"There is only one way to do this. Grip the end of the handle firmly in the playing hand and keep the grip on when playing a stroke.

"Always cultivate the 'follow through' in a stroke much in the same way as in driving at golf or at billiards. Don't work from the elbow, but use the whole of the arm when making a stroke. Then the back-hand and volleys will be learned more easily

Keep Eyes on Ball

"And here is another point which is priceless. Keep your eyes on the ball. Anticipate where it is going to pitch, and be there to meet it. Never let the ball out of your sight. Watch it every fraction of a second and keep on your toes ready to speed after it.

"If the student will keep these hints in mind she will have something material to go on. The rest is a matter of practice and the development of the instinct of knowing where the ball is going to pitch.

"But above all things she should not forget her Muller exercises, for they are all-important."

REVOLT IN MOROCCO KEEPS SPAIN BUSY

PARIS, July 29.—The native uprising against the Spaniards in Morocco has become general throughout the mineral and agricultural district of Kert, according to a despatch received here from Oran. The rebel tribesmen have artillery and are reported to be bombarding the important coast city of Melilla. The Spaniards are said to have suffered heavy losses.

Whitney Boys Please

The excellent audience which assembled at the First Methodist Church Wednesday evening for the Whitney Boys' Chorus was well rewarded for they put on a program which delighted every patron present. The excellent work of the soprano soloists was generally remarked.

New Residence Section

A coming residential section of Glendale and a most beautiful one, is the tract north of 10th street and west of Grand View avenue. This is just south of L. C. Brand's place. Many lots have been sold there and some fine residences will soon rise.

TAXATION SYSTEM HELD RESPONSIBLE

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Declaring that the present system of federal taxation is responsible for the existing business depression because it has reduced the purchasing power of the people, a delegation representing the committee of manufacturers and merchants on federal taxation appeared before the House ways and means committee and urged the repeal of all excise, excess profits and corporation taxes, the increasing of inheritance taxes, and the establishment of a tax on all land not actually used for agriculture.

The delegation contended that the taxation of land values would not injure business and that it would "promote building, solve the housing shortage, provide employment for hundreds of thousands of workers and stimulate all the building trades."

If you never expect others to do as much for you as you are willing to do for others, you will not be disappointed.

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a Tablespoonful of Salts if Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but becomes weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

ART EXHIBITS AT FAIR DISCUSSED

Considerable interesting information relative to the art department of the San Fernando Valley Fair, which will be held in San Fernando, in September, was brought out at an informal meeting Thursday afternoon of committee chairmen and members representing the eleven communities interested, at the home of Mrs. Ella Richardson of this city, who is chairman of that section. Mrs. Harry Houston, chairman of the general Women's Committee was present and was asked to preside. She explained that the exhibits would be classified under three general heads—owners, artists and amateurs, for the purpose of doing away with unfair competition and to give encouragement to home talent each group will be classified, according to their subjects, under flowers, landscapes, marines, portraits and still life. A distinction will also be made between copies of paintings and original work—from nature. They will also be classified under oil paintings, water colors, drawings and pastels. Classes have also been made for china painting, conventional and naturalistic, and for photography.

The hostess was assisted by Miss Esther Phillippi in the serving of ice cream and a delicious cake made by Miss Philippi and the ladies separated feeling that it had been a profitable session. Present were: Mrs. Harry Houston and Mrs. L. E. Webster of San Fernando, Mrs. N. Flynn of Tacoima, Miss Ida Fulcher of Lankershim, Mrs. Claire Woods of Burbank, Mrs. R. C. Ewing, of Zelzah, Mrs. James Mather of Mission Acres, Mrs. A. Bensman, Mrs. P. C. Hickerson, Mrs. G. G. Pendle, Miss Alice Frantz, the Glendale chairman, and Mrs. S. V. Phillips.

Announcement was made of a general mass meeting of committees to be held at the Women's Club House in Burbank Tuesday, August 9 at 2 p. m.

ELKS "HIGH JINKS" SATURDAY NIGHT

The jinks program and smoker at the Elks' Lodge Saturday night, for members only, gives promise of a lot of fun because three committees are vying with each other in providing the program and it is probable several surprises will be sprung. Secretary W. W. Kimball, says they haven't even told him what is preparing, but he knows from past experience it will be something good along the line of athletic stunts, wrestling, boxing, etc.

The Secret of a Good Photograph

By HELENE CHADWICK

Like many secrets, the secret of the good photograph is, after all, rather simple, when you know it. The thing is to know it, and I am here going to give my readers the benefit of my personal experience, as well as certain facts about photography learned through years of motion picture making.

Did you ever go to the photographer, hoping to have a good picture taken, and then be bitterly disappointed? Why, it didn't even look like you—let alone do you justice, or flatter you the tiniest bit! Your cheeks appeared to be hollow, where in truth they were round and rosy, and even if you did have the suggestion of a double chin, it certainly was not bad at that!

So, first let me impress two of the simplest truths about photography, so that misrepresentations like that will not occur again. The rosier cheeks are in real life the hol lower they appear on paper, for the color red always photographs black. By the same token, if you are inclined to plumpness under the chin, take any ordinary dry rouge, run the rouge puff under the chin, from about two inches below the ear on each side, or where the fullness starts. You will have a broad collar of red, which may appear strange to you, but this red will create a shadow or hollow, under the chin, where the double chin has been.

How to Use Rouge.

Now, another hint—the rouge puff can be used on any part of the face for the same reason; on the cheek bones, if they are high; on the eyelids, if the eyes are protruding, and even on the sides of the nose, if it is broad, or flat. Don't be alarmed if your photographer raises his hands in protest. If he has ever photographed an actor, he will understand. If he hasn't, he will learn an invaluable lesson.

I would not like my readers to gain the impression that screen actresses are not beautiful, and that they depend on this artificial method to make them appear so. The fact that the camera does not faithfully reproduce the delicate shadings and moulding of the face, and in order to make it do the face justice these shadings and contours must be accentuated. Many of our screen actresses are even lovelier off the screen than on, because their certain beauty cannot be entirely caught by the camera.

I proceed in this way, when making up for a photograph. First, I pin my hair back tightly from my face. Then I apply a good cold cream, wiping it off thoroughly. Next, I rub in a coating of grease paint. You can buy this in any drug store. Numbers 1 and 1½ are the best tints. Over the grease paint, a smooth covering of powder is patted on with the powder puff, and be sure to pat it in well. Then brush lightly with a camel's hair or ordinary baby brush.

How to Curl Eyelashes.

Mascaro can be purchased in any drug store. When applying, run the brush from the inside to the edge of the eye lashes, and hold back against the lid for a moment. This will curl them. The mouth is rouged in a clean cut line, but not too deeply, as it will photograph black. Always moisten the lips just before the pic ture is taken, as this gives a lovely high light, which will make almost any mouth pretty. These little aids to beauty can all be purchased for less than $2.

It is possible to get a good photograph without the grease paint, using only a smooth powder, evenly applied. Remember—never rouge your cheeks. The paler you are the better you will look. Unless, as I said, you are inclined to plumpness, when the rouge can be used to take off fullness. A dimple in the chin may be accentuated with a touch of rouge.

I would advise experimenting before your mirror, until you become accustomed to the make-up, and do not be discouraged if your first photograph is not all you expect. It will take a little practice, but your final results will be worth the trouble.

Five thousand women suffragists will serve as inspectors at this year's elections in New York.

The public school children of Minneapolis, Minn., are taught grammar and the uses of good English by motion pictures at several of the local theatres.

Belgian peasant women catch fish by standing in the shallow water of the rivers and swinging through the water large nets attached to poles.

In London, a day nursery teaches children from two to five years the rudiments of domestic science and housekeeping.

Outdoor classes in lace-making are conducted for girls and women of Belgium at Brussels, in an effort to revive the art that was neglected during the war.

German and Austrian women before the Great War bought and wore more ostrich feathers than any other women in theh world.

Plans are under way to revive the Marshall Law Club for women at the University of Pennsylvania and to provide women students with club quarters.

AMAZING PROGRESS ON KENNETH ROAD

The Pacific avenue district, as it was called in the annexation petition, has made an amazing growth, especially along Kenneth road, has been extended across Kenneth road, down to Sixth street, and several fine residences are projected along it. Most of the Huntley-Evans subdivision, north of Kenneth road, is sold, in lots of one-quarter acre to three acres or more, and fine homes will soon be started on a number of these. Mattison B. Jones' two-story garage on the rear of his acreage at 1825 Kenneth road, is completed and ready for occupancy. The large house on the front will be moved across the street, to make room for an imposing dwelling Mr. Jones will erect, later on. Several costly residences have been built near the intersection of Kenneth road and Grand View avenue, and along the north end of the last named streeet.

Just a Mistake

Mrs. Gilbert K. Chesterton, the wife of the English humorist, was talking about the rather ultra suits worn by the Florida girl bathers. "I like these swimming suits," she said, "when they are worn by girls who are beautifully built. Too often, though——" Mrs. Chesterton shrugged hre shoulders. "Too often you are reminded down there of the girl who said to her pastor: 'I am afraid I must confess to one sin—the sin of vanity. Whenever I pass a mirror in my swimming suit I can help thing how beautiful I am.' 'Oh,' said the pastor, with a wave of his hand, 'that isn't a sin. It's only a mistake.'"

What Next?

An Irishman visiting a friend in the hospital began to take an interest in the other patients. "What are you in here for?" he asked one. "I've got tonsilitis, and I've got to have my tonsils out," was the answer. "And you?" he asked another. "I've got blood poisoning in the arm, and they're going to cut it off," was the reply. "Heavens!" said Pat, in horror, "this aint no place for me. I've got a cold in my head. I guess I'll be going."
